Pope Francis: Wars continue to sow death in stark contrast with the Easter message

Dear readers, wisdom can be described as the art of knowing how the world operates and be able to draw profit from it. In our era, most of the things have been commercialized. People want to capture value in whatever they do. Our mission to spread the Gospel to all peoples must also generate spiritual revenue. In this case, the increase in the number of lives transformed for better as a result of direct or indirect catechesis of faith is our revenue. Any organization that fail to innovate in terms of how it creates and delivers value to the target group, will cease to be relevant. It is incumbent to all those entrusted the leadership of any organization to promote innovation.
